All contracts, commercial agreements, purchase orders, and commitments previously undertaken by Eriochem remain fully effective, valid, and enforceable under the terms and conditions originally agreed upon;

This shareholding transition will not impact our daily business relationship. All manufacturing operations, regular commercial contacts, and global logistics networks will continue seamlessly as normal, we are highly confident that this integration will further optimize our production efficiency and improve our international supply chain standards in the future.

Eriochem retains its current Tax ID (CUIT/RUT), corporate name, and bank accounts for payment and invoicing management. Therefore, no changes are required in your vendor registration systems.
